

What should a landlord do if s/he receives a regular monthly check and the tenant subsequently vacates the unit in the middle of the same month?

Under the Housing Choice Voucher program regulations, the owner may keep the Housing Assistance Payment check received for the month in which the family vacates. However, the Housing Authority reserves the right to recoup funds after verification the tenant has vacated the unit.