NEWS RELEASE

New Castle County Government Closed Tuesday Due to Snowfall Across Delaware

New Castle County Government is closed today due to snowfall across Delaware. This includes all county libraries.

Please note, the Employee Information Line is down and cannot be updated.

Chief Administrative Officer David Grimaldi announced that government would be closed shortly after the county's 5 a.m. conference call this morning to assess weather conditions.

County Executive Thomas P. Gordon made the determination to not open shortly after Governor Jack Markell announced that State of Delaware offices would be closed. In both cases, non-essential personnel were asked to stay home while essential personnel, such as police and other public safety operators, were asked to report as scheduled.

Please be careful if you must drive today. Thank you.
